Husband's ghost leaves winning Lotto numbers on wife's answering machine!

DEAD HUBBY George Lowe is still calling.

SYDNEY, Australia — Widowed mom Theresa Lowe was flat broke until she won $14 million in the Australian Lotto — by playing numbers that a ghostly voice left on her telephone answering machine!

By RANDY JEFFRIES
Weekly World News

"I know it was the ghost of George, my husband," says the newly rich mother of three. "He died in a fire four years ago.

"When I heard those six numbers, I got an irresistible urge to play them in the Lotto.

"The feeling was so strong that I wasn't even surprised when the numbers won — I just knew they were going in."

Mrs. Lowe was two months behind in her rent and was facing eviction before her incredible stroke of luck.

"I had no idea how I'd feed my children or where we'd live," said the 38-year-old unemployed former factory worker.

"I got home from a job interview and checked my answering machine to see if there were any job offers. There was only one message, spoken in that familiar voice.

"He said, 'Here are the numbers: 6, 16, 23, 37, 38 and 42.' He didn't mention the lottery but I somehow knew that's what he was telling me."

Best friend and part-time babysitter Mrs. Della Woods describes Mrs. Lowe as a woman who's normally cautious with money.

"She was going to buy a lottery ticket I couldn't believe my ears. To the best of my knowledge she'd never played the Lotto before in her life.

"I told her that as broke as she was, she couldn't afford to go gambling her money away. But nothing I could say would change her mind."

Mrs. Lowe says having the money to provide for her children's welfare and education is a great relief. She intends to send them to the best schools.

But she also plans to use $5 million of her new fortune to set up a charity for other single moms who have fallen on hard times.

"I know how hard it can be for single mothers. Now I can give back some of the good fortune that has been given to me," she says. "I know that's what George would have wanted."

WIDOW Theresa Lowe played the lottery numbers given to her by her dead husband — and she won!

JAWS MURDERED!

Mob of sicko tourists beats great white shark to death

By ANN VICTORIA Weekly World News

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — A mob of 100 bloodthirsty tourists — including men, women and children — lured a sick shark into shallow water, then savagely beat it to death with steel rods, clubs, knives and even their fists!

Animal-rights groups worldwide are calling the death of the 14-foot great white "murder." And they want something done about it.

Great white sharks are protected by South African law because their numbers are dwindling. The one was apparently suffering from a bacterial infection that caused it to become disoriented. It accidentally came too close to shore and was lured closer by bathers who tossed it by waving jewelry, tossing beach balls and flapping bright T-shirts and other gaudy personal articles of clothing.

When it became stranded in the shallows, the mob converged on it. They eventually brought it up on the beach and brutalized it for more than an hour.

"These people are beneath contempt," said environmental activist Hall Tomkin, who was present when the attack took place.

"There was nothing I could do to stop them. It wasn't doing anything to them. But they threw themselves at it mercilessly. Some of them had clubs, steel rods or knives. Some attacked it with makeshift weapons, using bells, combs, even fingernail files. Others, when the shark was weakened enough, just pounded on it with their fists.

"I saw one woman actually hand her toddler a knife and say 'Go ahead, son, get the mean shark.' And the boy began stabbing it."

Tomkin says most people don't realize that great white sharks play an important part in the balance of nature — that they are every bit as important to the environment as whales and dolphins are.

"These people should be brought before a court and made to answer for their crimes," Tomkin told reporters. "Instead, they're being hailed as heroes and slapping each other on the back.

"It makes me sick to my stomach."

Now the idiots face jail because they killed an endangered species!

Nursing baby bites into mom's silicone boob — & ends up in the hospital!

KEVIN CREED / Weekly World News

PARIS — A woman is suing her plastic surgeon for $1 million after her breast-feeding baby bit into her boob, ingested silicone from her implant and became gravely ill!

Jacqueline Rousseau, 24, says her 16-month-old daughter Alise nearly died after sinking her teeth into her right breast, puncturing the implant and swallowing a mouthful of silicone.

Mrs. Rousseau, a department store model, rushed little Alise to the hospital later that night after she suffered a severe allergic reaction and had to have her stomach pumped to remove the silicone.

She later brought suit against her cosmetic surgeon Dr. Louis Montand, 51, because he never warned her of the possibility that such a mishap could occur.

Dr. Montand's lawyers are calling the suit "utterly ridiculous."

"In the first place, Mrs. Rousseau should have known better than to breast-feed a child who had a tendency to bite," said lead attorney Pierre Rouiel, in a statement issued to the press. "And in the second place, there is no evidence to link the baby's illness directly to the silicone."

Rouiel points out that Mrs. Rousseau signed a waiver holding Dr. Montand blameless for any problems resulting from the implant.

But French legal experts say Mrs. Rousseau could have a strong case.

"Despite the waiver, the European judicial system is very sentimental about children," said one analyst. "If she were suing for a leaky breast implant or another problem relating only to her, she would probably not stir the hearts of a civil court. But a judge may be moved to penalize a negligent doctor when his failure to disclose information contributes to the illness of a baby."

Now she's suing for $1 million — 'cause surgeon didn't warn her about kids with sharp teeth!

HEALTH-CONSCIOUS mom Jacqueline Rousseau thought breast-feeding her little baby Alise would help her grow to be strong and healthy.

LICORICE IS NATURE'S MIRACLE HEALING MEDICINE!

One of the healthiest foods in the world can be bought at the supermarket: Delicious licorice!

That's right. The American Cancer Society says the sweet root can protect you against cancer and cure a host of ailments.

But be sure you get the real thing — not the licorice candy sold in most stores, which contains little or no licorice root.

Be careful. Consuming licorice for more than seven days in a row can cause or complicate high blood pressure.

Dangerous depression or just the blues?

NEW TEST TELLS WHICH ONE!

Nearly everyone gets depressed at one time or another — but you can tell a serious case from a simple bout with the blues by following a 10-point checklist from experts.

By GRAHAM WILLS
Weekly World News

Read the following list of warning signs, then check off each one that applies to you and which has persisted for more than two weeks:

- Change in sleep pattern — including difficulty sleeping or sleeping too much.
- An unexpected weight change or loss of appetite.
- All-consuming feelings of guilt over a minor matter.
- Serious loss of self-esteem or a feeling of worthlessness.
- Inability to concentrate on simple things, like reading a book or writing a note.
- Loss of interest in favorite pastimes, such as going to the movies, taking walks or playing tennis.
- Loss of interest in sex, or even in being intimate with a loved one.
- Increased fatigue or agitation, either being constantly tired or full of nervous energy.
- Suicidal thoughts — considering death as a way of solving your problems.
- Actual planning of suicide, thinking of how you will kill yourself, giving away your possessions in preparation for it.

Anyone may suffer some of these symptoms from time to time, said Dr. Susan Blumenthal, an expert in suicide research — but if you checked off four or more of the above symptoms or are thinking seriously about suicide, you should seek help.

If you're over 50, see a medical doctor to make certain no physical illness is causing the depression, added pharmacologist Dr. William Foster. If you're younger and healthy, see a psychiatrist.

DOCTORS HAIL OATMEAL AS WONDER CURE AFTER 10-YEAR STUDY!

Oatmeal — Grandma's old standby — is a lot more than just breakfast: Experts are now touting it as a wonder cure!

The high-fiber food helps eliminate diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries — diseases which affect over one-half of all Americans, say experts.

By ELAINE ROBERTS
World News

"Ten years of research have convinced me that a rigorous diet of starchy carbohydrates, particularly oatmeal, can free diabetic patients from years of insulin injections," said Dr. James W. Anderson, a professor of medicine and author of Diabetes: A Practical New Guide to Healthy Living.

"In a carefully controlled study of 10 adult diabetic patients, we found that as in 40 percent could come off insulin by following a special oat diet."

Dr. Anderson's diet includes one large bowl of oatmeal at breakfast and two servings of dried beans or two oat bran muffins later in the day, as well as vegetables, fruit, bread, fish and other nutritious foods.

He explained the magical effect of oatmeal:

"Acids produced in the body from the gummy fiber of oatmeal shut off the body's excessive production of sugar from proteins and other sources, thus lowering and stabilizing blood sugar — which is vital for diabetics."

Eating oatmeal can also reduce the body's cholesterol level, said Dr. Anderson. "It does this by causing the body to excrete more cholesterol and by producing gases which inhibit the liver from producing cholesterol."

Oatmeal has also been shown to reduce high blood pressure by causing the body to excrete salt, added Dr. Anderson.

"If this isn't enough to convince you it's a wonder cure, oatmeal also prevents hardening of the arteries.

"And for people not suffering from any of these diseases, I think one bowl of oatmeal could be a good preventative against getting these diseases.

"Oatmeal is one of the healthiest foods available!"

OATMEAL eliminates heart disease, diabetes, high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries.

A 'night out with the girls' the key to a happy marriage, say experts

A wife's occasional "night out with the girls" makes for a happier woman and can actually strengthen a marriage, say two top psychologists!

"Wives, especially those with children, generally have more stresses and work longer hours than their husbands," declared Dr. Shayne Kahn, a noted expert.

"So they need their nights out more than their husbands do. And those nights can improve marriages.

"Because many women are stuck in their homes for days on end, they feel like prisoners," Dr. Kahn explained. "They actually break out of her prison."

Getting out with the girls and talking over mutual problems relieves this stress and heightens a wife's self-confidence, Dr. Judith Sheppard-Kahn added.

"This improves a wife's self-image — and can strengthen marriages."

What's more, pointed out Dr. Kahn, when a wife has a night out, "her husband becomes more [illegible] housework, bath and bedtime. He has to experience what she does all day — and that makes him more understanding."

As an added bonus, Dr. Kahn revealed, "Women tell me that after a night out with the girls they're excited to see their husbands. The husbands are excited, too."

A husband and wife have had a chance to relax with other, Dr. Kahn said, to appreciate each other more — and

MAN SUES GAL WHO SAVED HIS LIFE

. . . because she popped his eyes out with the Heimlich maneuver!

By KEVIN CREED / Weekly World News

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — A man is suing the woman who saved his life with the Heimlich maneuver — because she used too much force and popped his eyes out!

Doctors say James Grumbly, 38, was blinded when waitress Lily Waltrocks squeezed his midsection with tremendous force. The maneuver ejected the piece of hamburger that was stuck in Grumbly's throat. But unfortunately the hearty squeeze also dislodged both his eyes from their sockets. The eyes were not lost in place but the optic nerves and blood vessels have been irreparably damaged.

Witnesses agree that Grumbly was choking and would have died without the quick thinking of Mrs. Waltrocks, 42.

"People call me ungrateful," says Grumbly, a former truck driver. "But I'd like to see how they'd feel about facing life without sight.

"I'm glad she saved my life but she didn't have to squeeze me so hard. It was irresponsible of her and I deserve to be compensated for the hardship that she inflicted on me."

FORMER TRUCK driver James Grumbly was blinded by waitress Lily Waltrocks.

Grumbly plans to ask for $2 million in damages from the restaurant where the incident occurred and intends to slap a lifetime claim on Mrs. Waltrocks for 50 percent of her salary.

"I want her to remember me every day of her life," says Grumbly. "Maybe next time she sees someone choking, she'll pay a little more attention to the force she uses to save them."

Mrs. Waltrocks, a devout Christian, says she's confused by Grumbly's attitude.

"I feel very sorry for him," she said. "I feel terrible that I injured his eyes. But I was only doing what I believed was right. If I had it to do over I wouldn't squeeze so hard. I just wish he wasn't so angry at me."

The case is scheduled to come to civil court in late May.

American seniors are happy folks!

A new survey reveals two-thirds of America's oldsters are happier with their lives, but only half of those between 18 and 49 can say the same thing.

"Older people are happier because they've had their lives and made their mistakes while young people are still struggling to overcome problems," said a top psychiatrist

SCIENTIST WANTS CLONE JONBENET

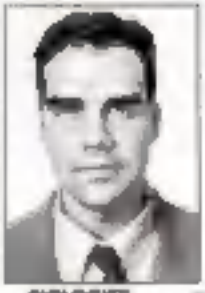
Swiss laboratory offers to replace murdered beauty queen for grieving Ramsey family!

GENEVA, Switzerland — The world's leading geneticist has made a stunning offer to the grieving family of little JonBenet Ramsey: I'll clone your daughter!

Noted scientist Dr. Peter Beuhler, touched by the tragic death of the 6-year-old beauty queen who was murdered in 1996, announced last week that he will restore the child to her mother and father "as good as new," thanks to the miracle of cloning.

"All I need is one of JonBenet's DNA cells, a human egg and the family's permission and I will reproduce that darling child," said Dr. Beuhler, 44, who has successfully cloned monkeys, sheep and at least four humans.

"We know the DNA is available because parts of the girl's body are currently being preserved," he said. "Any number of overjoyed women would be honored to donate an egg. So all we really need is a 'yes' from the Ramseys and we'll begin work immediately."



BIOLOGIST: Dr. Jacob Stamm

In the past year, cloning has been very much in the news. Just a short time ago, Weekly World News and other world media reported on the cloning of a woman by Boston biologist Dr. Jacob Stamm. The NEWS story explained that the cloning had been done over a year ago and was only now being announced.

But since that crowning achievement — hailed as the first-ever cloning of a human — Dr. Beuhler has generously reproduced four humans.

Indeed Dr. Beuhler says he the Ramseys' only chance since President Clinton banned the cloning of human beings in America.

"We have the process down pat by this time," said Dr. Beuhler. "We simply implant little JonBenet's DNA cells into a human egg and place the egg in a specially developed artificial womb here at the lab.

"The result will be a child identical to the murdered girl in every respect. Of course she'll be a baby first — she won't spring to life as a 6-year-old. But that's even better for the grieving couple. Not only will the Ramseys have their daughter back, they'll even have the joy of raising her again."

Dr. Beuhler says he's been unable to reach the Ramseys for comment as yet because the couple has been staying out of the public eye.

"But I feel sure they'll welcome the opportunity to have their little girl back," he says. "I have children of my own and if I were in their position I'd jump at the chance."

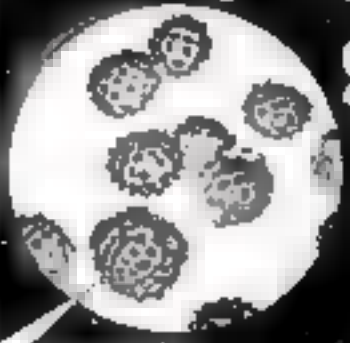
This unidentified Algerian factory worker was one of the first victims of the plague. He has since died.

Terrifying bug from outer space could kill 500 million by year 2000, warn frightened doctors!



ALIEN ORGANISM that killed as few as 50 people could kill millions of times more

By GEORGE SANFORD

EL DJAZIR, Algeria — Scientists here have isolated a tiny infectious organism that did not evolve on Earth, but instead originated in another solar system!

The mystery microbe, presently believed to be an unlikely virus, has infected more than 100 people in this troubled nation so far this year — and chillingly, the contagion is spreading so rapidly that experts say it could claim 500 million victims worldwide by the year 2000!

"These life forms are unlike any known virus," revealed U.S. researcher Dr. Claude LaDie, leader of an international medical team probing the epidemic. "We have carefully analyzed their DNA and found that they are not related to any other living thing on Earth.

Unlike the AIDS virus, the organism — named IGI 4 — can be spread by normal contact — for example a kiss, handshake or a close face to face conversation. The early symptoms are a rash characterized by ugly purple sores that appear first on the arms or legs and then spread quickly to the rest of the body.

Strangely, in the few people before death victims of [illegible] like those afflicted by [illegible] like "Their experiences included fever symptoms for about 72 hours, then they become [illegible] violently psychotic and deadly," said Dr. LaDie.

They also take on a slightly [illegible] and slurred speech, and have a tendency to wander from their beds late at night."

The microscopic organisms, average just 14 nanometers in diameter — less than one-ten-thousandth the width of a human hair — are [illegible] new order of bacteria-like microscopic," said Dr. LaDie.

The primary characteristics of the organisms are highly unusual.

Unlike viruses, which are typically either rod-shaped or spherical, IGI 4 has jagged spikes like a power saw. "We have observed what appears to be a [illegible] structure within the organism," said the scientist.

President [illegible] pledges millions of dollars to find a cure — if there is one!

WEEKLY WORLD NEWS MEDICAL ALERT

[illegible] reports that President Clinton has promised the U.S. that America will donate more than $25 million to help find a cure for the disease, noting that "this is a problem the whole world is facing."

Oddly enough, more than half of those who have fallen victim to the contagion so far have reportedly been military and police officials — leading some British researchers to speculate that what we normally know as the "Black Plague" is somehow capable of choosing new victims.

UFO buffs from around the world have been quick to jump on the discovery of the organism, claiming that it could be the first evidence that extraterrestrials were deliberately seeded on Earth.

"For years people have believed that an invasion of our planet might be carried out by large, slimy living creatures preceded by little green men," said researcher Tim Schlarb in an article in the international UFO journal Third Eye Encounters. "Instead it seems that at least the first wave of the invading force is made up of tiny microbes the equal of the eye to see."

U.S. scientists push aside the notion of a deliberate invasion but suggest that other causes be carefully studied. "It's certainly possible that a host of infectious organisms believed to be ordinary viruses [illegible]

Q Before super-successful director Woody Allen married Soon-Yi, the young daughter of his former lover, Mia Farrow, did he make her sign any kind of pre-nuptial agreement?

— Hiram B., Macon, Ga.

A The word in Hollywood is that before the bespectacled 61-year-old funnyman tied the knot with the 21-year-old coed, he did demand that she sign off on an outrageous pre-nup. The document is said to include stipulations that her new family live in her own apartment, visit only twice a week, give up calling Woody's parents and most importantly NEVER talk to her mother Mia. Soon-Yi admitted to a British magazine that her head "sank" when Woody visited his condo.

CEILING MIRROR IN X-RATED MOTEL FALLS

CRASH! KILLING COUPLE HAVING SEX!

By CHARLES WHEELER
Weekly World News

LOS ANGELES

A cheating couple got what was coming to them after checking in to a sleazy motel for an afternoon quickie — when a giant ceiling mirror over the bed came loose and crashed down, killing them both!

"Apparently ceiling mirrors over the bed are a big attraction at some of these hotels," said one police officer. "And this was a huge mirror, wider and longer than the entire bed."

The victims were identified as Randy Preston, 36, and Sabrina Mokuhani, 33, both of Los Angeles. An outline to newspaper reports, both were married to other people.

"The motel manager had rented the room to them for only two hours," a police spokesman said. "When they didn't return the room key, he went to the room and knocked on the door.

"There was no answer, so he used his master key to go inside.

"That was when he discovered the bodies."

The spokesman said the entire room was splattered with blood.

Secret signals tell if someone is attracted to you, says new study!

By observing subtle, unspoken "love signals," you can tell when someone is secretly interested in you, an expert reveals.

Even a simple roll of the head can be a signal that a stranger would like to make contact, says Dr. David Givens, who spent four years researching courtship behavior at the Center for Nonverbal Studies in Spokane, Wash.

Here are some of the unconscious ways people express interest:

TILTING THE HEAD — "When you make eye contact with an attractive person and they tilt their head to the side, it is a sign of deep interest," explained Dr. Givens, a noted anthropologist.

MIRRORING — If a person sitting near you unwittingly imitates your gestures, crosses their legs when you do or leans back when you lean back — you can assume that they are showing an interest in you.

"It's a clue to find out if someone is interested," declared Dr. Givens.

"Just sit forward a lot or lean back, and see if the person follows your lead."

CROSS GAZE — A person might gaze off to their left, then sweep their eyes across your face and gaze off to their right, repeating the movement without settling their gaze on you.

"This is a good sign the person is secretly interested in you."

EXAGGERATED GESTURES — Rather than a simple gesture, a person who'd like to make contact may make an elaborate gesture.

"For example, instead of a quick glance at my watch, a woman may interested her arm then dramatically bring the watch back to her face and tilt her head over to see the time.

"If it's a watch, she'll bet to telegraph her wishes to spoken to."

HANDS BETWEEN THE KNEES — This is a typical posture men take when they're speaking with women they like.

"The man will lean forward in his chair, rest his forearms on his knees and clasp his hands between his knees, looking like a blushing church groom stretching toward his future bride."

If a man sits like that across from a woman, that he is probably secretly interested in her, Dr. Givens declared.

"Although women do it also, it's more of a male thing."

LOVESICK LOOK — "The other person's eyebrows just bends rise as if the lifting takes every last ounce of their energy. Their face goes slack and their lower jaw drops, but their lips remain sealed so that the bottom half of the face

Crying your eyes out is GOOD for you, say doctors!

There's a lot more to tears than meets the eye. Tears are crucial to our physical and emotional health.

In numerous studies, researchers have found that crying helps lessen the effects of dermatitis, tension headaches and asthma.

On the other hand, experts say, holding back tears can create stress which in turn can lead to heart attacks and ulcers and reduce the body's ability to ward off common colds. Most of us blink about 15 times a minute, using our eyelids like squeegees to spread new tears over the eye.

"Tears are beneficial because they contain a lot of things that keep the cornea of the eye healthy and free of bacterial agents," said specialist Dr. Stephen Bloomfield.

"An enzyme in tears digests bacteria and keeps the eye from becoming infected.

"Tears moisten the cornea, making it less susceptible to abrasions and severe drying, which can impair vision."

And tears, of course, are an integral part of crying.

For babies, particularly, crying is a way to build the breathing and speech reflexes and to communicate.

Research on infants has shown that mothers who pick up their babies when they cry during the first year have babies who are less fussy and weepy later on. In other words, the more responsive the mother, the less baby cries.

Mechanic's ghost helps stranded motorists

One of the oldest supernatural legends in Poland is that of the Changer of Lublin.

Many motorists who've traveled along a lonely road on the outskirts of the remote town of Lublin have reported encountering a ruddy man after being forced to stop with a flat tire. In each case the mystery man quickly and silently changes the motorist's tire. When the motorist offers to give the figure payment or a gift, both times, he vanishes.

SAVAGES BAG HELICOPTER

HELICOPTER is being held hostage until its owners cough up $1000!

TRIBE'S warriors stand guard over captured chopper

They think captured chopper's a huge bird — & are even trying to feed it!

By Lisa MOORE

KINSHASA, Zaire – Jungle savages seized a helicopter and are holding it for ransom after the blades of the rear rotor sliced off a tribal elder's head!

Even more startling, the natives think the chopper is a gigantic bird and are actually offering it food in a bid to keep it alive.

I've been a journalist for 25 years and this is the strangest story I've ever covered," said Tom Gibson, one of the three terrified men controlling the chopper after it made a forced landing.

"The savages have had very little exposure to modern technology and are convinced that the helicopter is a huge, trained bird," he continued.

"They are demanding a large ransom from the charter airline this week!

"And they've threatened to kill the chopper if they don't get the ransom before the month is out."

The bizarre drama unfolded after the chopper flown by pilot John Blair, developed engine problems forcing him to land near the village.

When the chopper touched down, 46-year-old Chief Apapa raised his spear and ran directly into the rotor. The whirling blades sliced off his head – killing him instantly.

"Even after I understood the situation, I was still terrified because the blades had stopped whirling," said Gibson.

"They took the pilot prisoner but agreed to release him after a representative of the charter service arrived at the village.

"They are continuing to hold the helicopter hostage, however until the chief's ransom has been paid — and they're demanding a million francs!

"But to even attempt landing a boat and water inside the village perimeter they really do think the helicopter is alive and a giant bird.

"They have no concept of this just being a machine."

Spokesmen for Zaire Air Charter refuse to discuss the tribe's demands but released a prepared statement that said: "We are continuing to negotiate.

"We definitely want our helicopter back."

HOW TO STOP A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN IN 2 MINUTES FLAT!

You can dramatically reduce your stress in just two minutes simply by looking at a videotape or a painting of beautiful natural settings, according to experts!

It doesn't really matter what type of setting you choose — just select one you like, whether it's a desert scene, forest, mountains, park, seascape or garden, said psychiatrist Dr. Isidore Zilerstein.

Gazing at the beauty of nature "helps take your mind off the problems that are causing your stress," said Dr. Robert Cloninger, another noted psychiatrist.

Natural settings also are soothing to jangled nerves because they don't contain people — and people are a major cause of stress.

In addition, these tranquil scenes provide a sharp contrast to the hustle and bustle of the everyday world — and this induces a feeling of inner peace.

Watching a videotape of natural settings reduces stress. So you should look at a natural scene until you feel your stress draining.

Lobster pinches socialite's boob in ritzy restaurant!

By JOE BERGER Weekly World News

PARIS — Society socialite Danielle LeBeouvron was dining in one of Europe's ritziest restaurants when the monster lobster she was digging into suddenly raised a king-size claw — and got a death grip on her left breast!

"I was just getting ready to eat the dessert thing when it reached up and tried to eat me," sniffed hot-cat Danielle, 40.

"That lobster grabbed my breast and no matter how much I was grossed and screamed, it just wouldn't let go. Everybody in the place was gawking and I've never been so humiliated in my life.

"Finally a waiter came over and released my breast from the lobster's claw — and that was pretty embarrassing in itself."

The mutilated mammary has filed suit against the hoity-toity Bistro Classic restaurant, seeking $10,000 for pain and suffering and a whopping $1.5 million in punitive damages.

"It's outrageous! Not charging what we charge, this kind of thing should never happen," the outraged lady told reporters.

But shown up chef Alain Ducasse says it's not his fault the ready crustacean clutched onto the society belle's breast.

"That lobster was properly prepared. I can guarantee you that," huffed distraught Ducasse.

But seamstress even after she was boiled there's a part of her left in them for them to pick at, twitch or reach out like that."

"It's a rotten kind of thing, and I can't be responsible for whatever it refuses."

Flabbergasted Danielle's horrifying ordeal began the moment the orders of guillemots — with mustard, boiled lobster, peas and pie, Federic Boudier Morand were served piping hot from steam kettles at Bistro Classic on the evening of February 2.

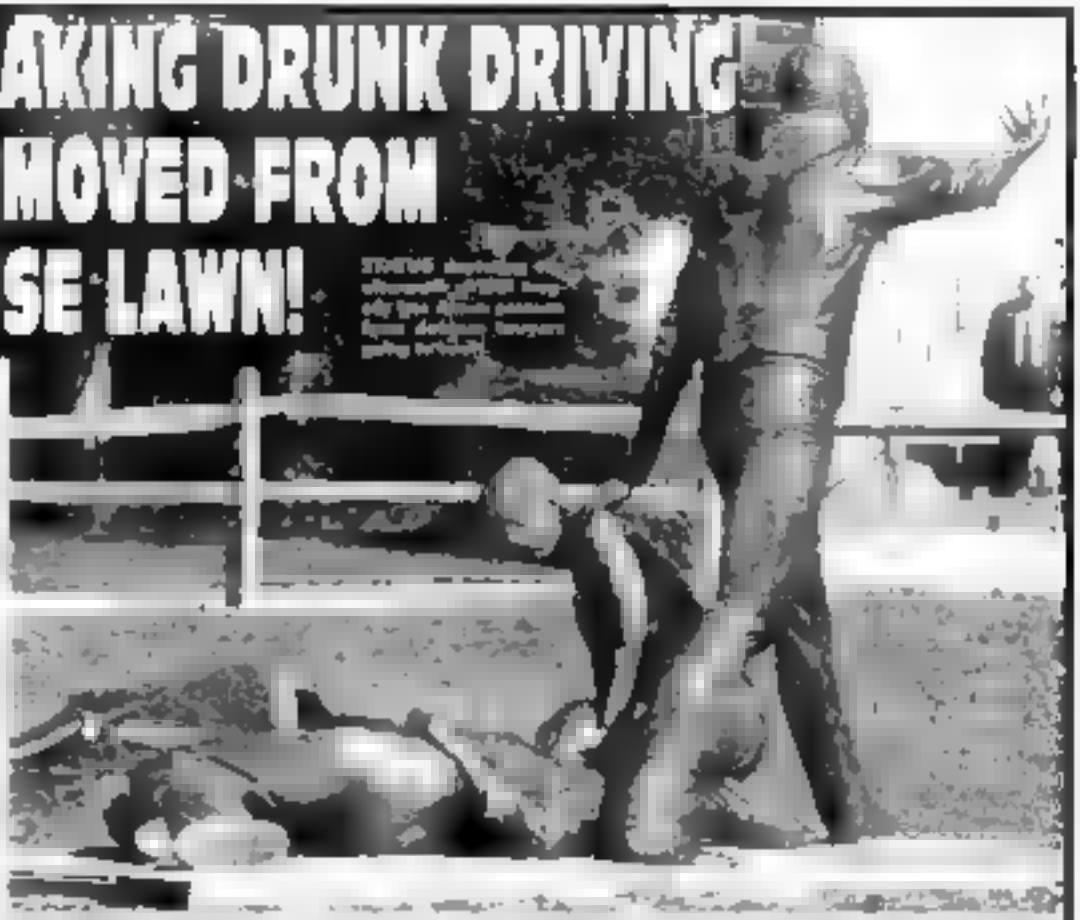
HEARTBREAKING DRUNK DRIVING STATUE REMOVED FROM COURTHOUSE LAWN!



By JERRY SHAW
Staff Writer

EAST MEADOW, N.Y. — Lawyers feared a sculpture of a drunk-driving accident would get their clients tossed in the slammer by sympathetic jurors — so they forced officials to remove it from a courthouse lawn!

The attorneys complained that the bronze statue — showing a woman cradling a man's head as another man calls for help — would influence potential jurors deciding the fate of people accused of drunk driving.

The lawyers even filed a lawsuit against Nassau County, which owns the statue, asking that the court order its removal.

Scientists create cow that gives chocolate milk!

SCIENTISTS say cows can now produce any flavor milk imaginable

Veterinarian Ralph Kestrum

CHESTER — Thanks to modern science, every child's dream has finally come true — now there's a cow that can give chocolate milk!

Scientists have figured out a way to splice genes and create a cow that can give milk in just about any flavor — and it tastes good.

7 easy ways to control your future

Successful people have certain attitudes you can adopt to control your future and change your life for the better.

To find out if you're ready to take charge of your future, ask yourself these questions:

Do I have a positive mental attitude toward change? Life's winners look upon change not as a threat but as a basis for hope. Since the world is changing constantly, you'll have to adapt and embrace change if you want to achieve happiness and success.

Do I have a positive mental attitude toward myself? Winners are convinced they can improve themselves in spite of their faults, limitations and shortcomings. You can be a winner, too, if you accept your imperfections and work to rise above them.

Do I have a positive mental attitude toward problems? Remember, problems give you an opportunity to prove yourself. The person who faces problems and takes action to solve them will emerge smarter and stronger.

Do I have a positive mental attitude toward people? Interviews with hundreds of successful leaders in different fields revealed their secrets of success. They expect the best from people and they get it.

Do I have a positive mental attitude toward creative ideas? Winners never reject good ideas by saying, "It can't be done," "It's too risky" or "Somebody else is already doing it." They look on ideas the way a farmer looks at seeds. Ideas must be planted, nurtured and cultivated for a bountiful future harvest.

Do I have a positive mental attitude toward decision making? Realize that if you avoid making a decision, you're deciding not to act.

Do I have a positive attitude about my leadership abilities? People who control their own future don't allow others to take a leadership role when it comes to their own bodies, minds and souls. They take responsibility for their lives — and so should you.

If you do, you're already on your way to controlling your future and achieving the success and happiness you dream about.

- Make him a scrapbook entitled, "This is your life." Dedicate it to a "very special man." Start with a baby picture and tell his life story with photos, special awards, pictures of his trophies — anything of special importance. Leave it on the coffee table for guests to see.
- Surprise him on the job with flowers and balloons.
- Make a big banner that says "SANDY LOVES AL" and leave it somewhere along his route to work.
- Hire a skywriter to
- Light bulbs in your bedroom with red ones to create a more romantic atmosphere.
- Make him "King For A Day." Cater to his every whim.
- Rent a cabin in the woods with no TV, telephone or radio. Talk to him and get reacquainted.
- Call him at work and tell him what you're going to do to him when he gets home. Be outrageous.
- Surprise him with tick-

BACHELOR BLUES!

'All the gals I date turn out to be men'

By JOE BERGER / Weekly World News

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — Love-starved bartender Dale Lecrissa longs to find the girl of his dreams, but the befuddled bachelor has sworn off the singles scene for good — because the last three ladies he's dated have been guys in disguise!

"I don't know if there's something wrong with me or not, but every time I fall for a woman, 'she' turns out to be a damn transvestite," groaned disillusioned Dale, 34.

"I've gone out with three absolutely adorable ladies in the last year and never once suspected they weren't really women till BOOM! — all hell broke loose.

"And I'll tell you, nothing makes you rather than finding out the woman you love is actually some hairy-legged brawler who likes to dress up in 'ladies' clothes.'

Devastated Dale's misadventures with the sisters began early in 1997 when he met sultry Serena at a bar near the park country club where he works.

"Serena was an absolute doll — or at least I thought she was," the rattled romeo recalled. "I mean, she wasn't a hang out for weirdos or any thing, so I never dreamed there was a guy under that black dress and all that makeup.

"I was so taken with her that I asked her out the next night, and before long we were dating up a storm.

"I'm a shy person when it comes to sex, so I never really pressured her to get too crazy. We would hold hands and snuggle a little and that was about all. I figured the rest would come later."

But the love-struck salesman's world came crashing down around him when he took the ladies home to a party — and a friend at work told him that his precious Serena was really a queen.

"This lawyer friend I was with at the party did a double take when I introduced him to Serena," dumbfounded Dale recalled. "Later he told me he'd run into the same person during a recent case — and he knew for a fact that she was a man.

"I confronted Serena and she broke down and confessed.

"It was the most horrifying moment of my life — especially when she told me she used to be an Army drill sergeant!"

But the shell-shocked bartender didn't realize what a minefield the singles scene had become till he fell in love with two more delectable ladies — and discovered that they, too, were dudgeons in drag.

"First there was Monica," he recalled. "She was tanned and gorgeous and she looked my butt in tennis every time we played. I never could figure out why, either; until she got slapped for a traffic ticket and had to admit that she was really a guy named Morris with a wife and two kids somewhere in Ohio.

"And then came Cindy, the blonde bombshell with the sexy voice.

"I actually thought I was going to marry her — till I learned her real name was Hugh, of all things."

So disgusted Dale says his dating days are done, at least until he gets over the breakup blues.

"From now on I'm not going out with anybody unless they consent to a strip search in advance," he said with a sigh.

The color of your swimsuit reveals your personality!

You can read your friends like an open book — just by checking out the color of their swimsuits!

And the color of your swimsuit can even give you a keen insight into your own personality, according to a report in a top psychology journal.

Here are the popular swimsuit colors and what they tell about people who pick them:

Black — This is a very dramatic person who thrives on flamboyant, high-risk situations. Even though the swimsuit is dark, the wearer has a colorful personality.

White — This person is very concerned about appearance, but tends to be rather cheap and cool. A white swimsuit is for a business-like and efficient person.

Red — Folks who wear this color suit want to be noticed by everyone. They don't beat around the bush and are willing to put themselves on the line.

Light blue — Calm and serene, people in light blue suits almost always go out of their way to avoid arguments and generally keep opinions to themselves.

Navy blue — This is for people who are neat, tidy and very organized. They are always on time and hate to be kept waiting.

Orange — This person is very happy with his life and has a positive attitude about the world and the people in it.

Yellow — Bright and cheerful, these folks have a great sense of humor and love to laugh. They're not afraid to stand up to anyone.

Purple — This color is for a sensitive person who is a great listener. Someone in a purple suit is more concerned about other folks' needs than his own.

Brown — This color is for down to earth people who are realistic, open and truthful. They believe in getting back to the basics.

Tan — Swimsuits in tan suits keep their true emotions to themselves. They want to blend in with the crowd and enjoy the simple things in life.

Pink — Suits this color are for very happy souls who enjoy almost everything they see and do.

No Suit — If you like to go skinny dipping, you are a happy go-lucky person who's not afraid to take a chance. You like to meet new people and are often the life of the party.

GHOST SHOCKER!

VIENNA, Austria — A family of four says they fled their home and moved in with relatives because they were being driven batty — by a fake

The witchy woman I married sacrificed my dog to Satan!

ROBERT in Purdyce

Dear Dotti: I knew my wife was into witchcraft before we got married earlier this year. But it really didn't bother me until I got home from work the other day and couldn't find Jed, the faithful dog that had been by my side through thick and thin for the past nine years. I asked Mary, that's my wife, if she had seen him. And as God is my witness, Dotti, she matter-of-factly informed me that she had had a few friends over for coffee that morning — and out of boredom, they decided to sacrifice Jed to Satan.

I was so angry it was everything I could do to keep from strangling her on the spot. But I kept my cool and simply told her that I wished she hadn't murdered the best friend and companion I ever had. Now I don't know what to do. I love Mary and all that, but I swear, this Devil crap gives me the creeps. What do you [redacted] Am I safe? — Robert in Purdyce

Dear Robert: As long as Mary doesn't get fooled again, you're probably going to be okay. With that in mind, I strongly advise you to head down to the nearest toy store — and buy the fastest puppy!

Creepy English professor wants my body BIG-TIME!

PATRICIA in Clinton

Dear Dotti: I started my junior year in college this fall and because I always study hard and do my best, I expect to make straight A's in all my classes. The only glitch is my English teacher, who has already made it clear to me in numerous ways that I won't do very well in his class unless I go to bed with him. I'm serious, Dotti! The guy must be 40 years old and he ogles me like crazy all during class. One day he asked me to stay after

"You know, it's [redacted] hard to make good grades when you aren't 'nice' to your teacher." I'm worried that he will flunk me, Dotti. What should I do? — Patricia in Clinton

Dear Patricia: The solution to your problem is as plain as the nose on my face: Tell the creep you've got AIDS!

Crazy hubby spends $250 a week — on healing herbs!

Dear Dotti: My husband is an idiot and he's trying his damndest to get us in the poorhouse. For starters, he spends $200 to $250 a week on all these bizarre healing herbs he reads about and spends all his time raving about how good he feels. I swear, Dotti, he takes at least 100 different herbs a day. It takes the Carrots — give you a raise."

Dear Hurt Poor in Marshall: You should have thought about that before you married a man who told you "money is the root of all evil" — and meant it!

Dear Lavender in Troy: Terrible! I don't care how many girlfriends you have on the swing, that ain't no way old goat can refer to yourself as a "sweetheart" in front of me!

Dear Wondering in Star: It's really none of your business but if you must know, yes — I DO wear sexy panties!

"Dotti, I have a best friend in Becky. She comes over to our house just about every day when Mommy isn't home and starts to play doctor with my Daddy. He told me that I shouldn't say anything to Mommy about it so I haven't. But I think that they're doing something very bad. Should I tell Mommy? I am 10 years old. — Tammy in Clinton

TAMMY in Clinton

Dear Tammy: Don't be a stranger if you really want your husband to stop taking all those herbs and a trip to those islands to recover with high-powered executives and an attorney by your side is the "dirty work" for you.

Why does Daddy play doctor with Mommy's best friend?

Dear Dotti: Every time my parents were out of town for the weekend and naturally, being 17 years old, I threw a big party. Needless to say, both boys and girls were invited. And as the night wore on, a few of us got intimate. The problem is, when Mom got home, she discovered an entire box of 24 condoms had disappeared from her nightstand. She accused my sister or brother of taking them, but I knew better. Should I tell Mom the truth or leave well enough alone, Dotti? — Frank in Riverhead City

Dear Frank: As long as your brother is taking the heat I say no reason to needlessly muddy the waters by telling all. Consider it revenge for something bad he's done to YOU!"

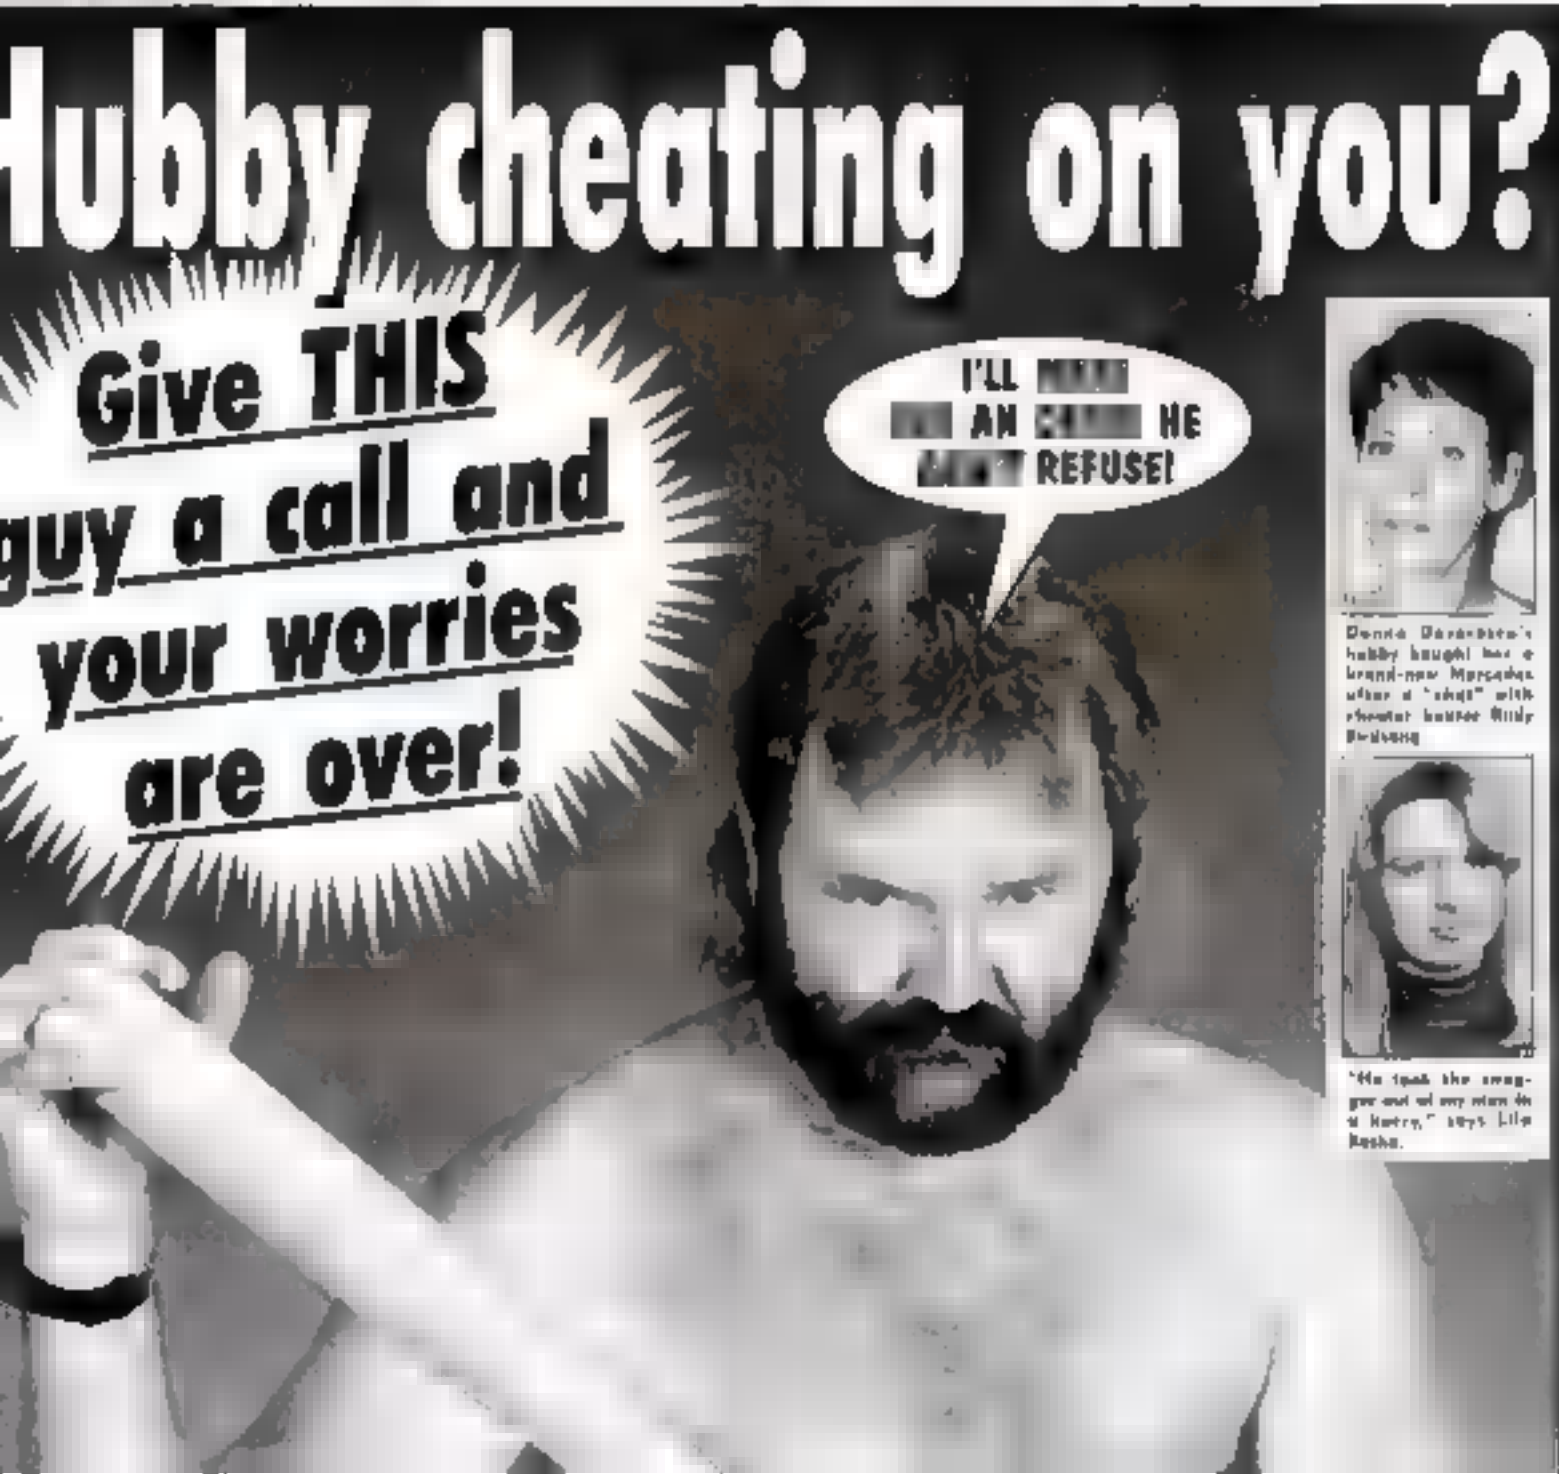
Hubby cheating on you?

Give THIS guy a call and your worries are over!



Donna Darenkov's hubby bought her a brand-new Mercedes after a "chat" with cheetah hunter Billy Bunions

"He took the swagger out of my step in a hurry," says Lita Rocha.

LOS ANGELES — Bruising Rudy Bird-ong is a former mill enforcer who's persuaded hundreds of adulterous hubbies to walk the straight and narrow — usually with nothing but a steely stare and a few well-chosen words!

The burly bachelor charges $500 to $2,500 a pop to bring wayward males back into — and he says business has been booming in the wake of recent allegations of whoop-in the White House.

"Now women see that even our First Lady can be victimized by a husband with a well-filled zipper, they're less embarrassed to reach out for help," rock 'em, sock 'em Rudy told a reporter.

"When these ladies catch their husbands messing around with another woman, they feel like they've been 'illiarted' and a lot of them are mad as hell. So instead of killing errant rhymes or going to some pantywaist marriage counselor, they go looking for a guy like me — somebody who'll drive home his point with a nightstick slugger of the best kind."

The former Cosa Nostra associate says he's shown more than a few cheating guys the error of their ways since he became every Don Juan hubby's worst nightmare in 1988.

"I get most of my customers by word of mouth — ladies I've worked for passing my phone number on to their friends," said tough-and-ready Rudy, 43.

"They call me up and tell me that their husband's been up to and where I can find the sleazeball.

"When I catch up with the guy, I walk up to him and I know what he's been doing and his wife knows what he's been doing, and I tell her new best friend and I are going to be watching out for her interests.

"Maybe I just happen to be carrying a baseball bat and maybe not. But I look him right in the eye and tell him in no uncertain terms that if he doesn't clean up his act I'll be back, and then maybe he won't be walking so good — or maybe his sex life will be over for good, if you get my meaning.

"That usually gets their attention, and I seldom have to have a second talk with any body."

And the hoodlum turned-housewife's helper has a long list of ladies willing to vouch for the success of his behavior modification techniques.

"I walked into my husband's office and caught him doing things with one of his secretaries that he never did with me," recalled shocked Donna Devereaux, 32.

"I was so furious, I phoned Rudy and told him to do whatever it took to make the creep see the light.

"Rudy caught up with him two days later in a parking garage near where he works. I don't know what he said to him exactly, but the next day my husband bought me a brand new Mercedes — and he's been a perfect little angel ever since."

And delighted Lita Rankin, 32, says Rudy saved her 13-year marriage just as it was ready to shatter into a thousand pieces.

"He took the swagger out of my man in a hurry," the elated lady recalled.

Rain Forest Wonder Herb Now Available in the United States Without a Prescription!

THIS JUNGLE PILL WILL CHANGE YOUR LIFE!

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah — What is considered by many to be one of the most powerful herbs on the planet is now available in the United States without a prescription and costs just pennies a day. The rain forest herb Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) is not only relied on by millions of true and grateful believers, it is guaranteed to change your life in a matter of hours, days or in truly stubborn situations, weeks, excited experts report.

Incredibly there's more. According to Dr. Dorothe Schreuthoverbilt, author of the important book, Herbs of the Amazon, Traditional and Common Uses, Una de Gato, which means "Cat's Claw" in Spanish, is a treasured and revered component of a folk tradition that has been tested and proven over a history of continuous use spanning hundreds of years.

"Rain forest herbs like Una de Gato clearly are among the purest and most powerful found in nature," declared Dr. Schreuthoverbilt. "They also are among the most thoroughly tested, having been used by the indigenous people of the Amazon for hundreds of years."

Dr. Schreuthoverbilt isn't the only expert singing the praises of Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) which is derived from the bark of a thorny vine that grows abundantly in the Amazon rain forest.

Susan Anderson

The testimonials from ordinary people who have count themselves among a growing legion of 'Cat's Claw believers' are filled with praises so heartfelt and sincere that they often culminate in tearful expressions of pure joy.

E.F. of Pensacola, FL., flatly states: "Before I found Cat's Claw, I was dead — DEAD! This herb gave me more than a new lease — it gave me back my life."

D.B. of Elba, AL., is equally enthusiastic. He says: "The pain in my hip joints crippled me for years. Just two weeks after I started Cat's Claw the pain is gone. I jump up off the sofa like a 10 year old!"

C.O. of Statesboro, Ga. goes even further than that. She says: "I had problems for years and Cat's Claw stopped them dead in their tracks. I lay in bed last night and kept saying 'Thank you Lord for the Cat's Claw.' I am going on 81, pumping rope and doing exercise. Four years ago, I was almost to the point I needed a walking cane or a walker."

Mind-boggingly, Sherry, mom L.B. of Albuquerque, NM, says: "Thanks to Susan Anderson and the Lord I found this wonderful rain forest herb. It has saved my life!"

D.C. of Lake Worth, FL. knows the power of Cat's Claw well. He says: "I take Cat's Claw every day like a vitamin tablet and my doctor called the results of my recent physical 'short of the medical miracles.' My function blood test, 'spectacular.'

"I have energy to spare and feel stronger, sharper and more alert than I did as a kid of 30. It might sound like a joke, but I'm as serious as a preacher when I say that with Cat's Claw in my medicine chest I am 100 percent confident that I will never be sick again. Cat's Claw is God's herb. There's not a doctor alive and a medical technology available, that could make anything like this herb. Only God can make a miracle — and that's exactly what Cat's Claw is."

Breakthrough research in Europe, where doctors routinely prescribed herbs and herbal therapies to patients, is equally dramatic. After long and intensive study an esteemed Austrian researcher identified several important alkaloids — active ingredients — found in the Cat's Claw herb. An extract is now being used as adjunctive therapy in the treatment of severe immune disorders.

It's no wonder that a strong immune system enables the body to ward off or banish diseases and conditions of every description, even the most painful, debilitating and terrifying known to man.

Pure, powerful, scientific Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) is, at last, available without a prescription in the United States. You are strongly advised, however, to purchase yours from a reliable, trusted source. Infinity Herbs has sold and shipped premium, money back-guaranteed Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) to well over 30,000 satisfied customers the world over since 1992. And at just $19 per bottle of 100 500mg capsules, Infinity's Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) is a tremendous bargain. Please don't settle for cheap imposters or waste your hard-earned money on over-priced products costing $25 to $30 or more. Infinity's Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) is not only priced right, it is pure, powerful and revitalized. Not only that, Infinity's Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) is guaranteed to change your life — or your money back.

HOW TO GET THE RAIN FOREST HERB

How to collect debts from deadbeat friends — without making them mad!

When a friend or relative doesn't return money he owes you, hard feelings can result — but these tips can help you collect the cash without putting your relationship on the rocks.

By GRAHAM WILLS

Be gentle but firm. Maybe you've forgotten, but I'd appreciate repayment

Never try to collect the debt in front of other people.

Don't tell acquaintances about the money they owe you.

Never tell acquaintances about your "financial" plans.

If the amount is small enough, it's not worth worrying about it. Friendship can be more important than the money.

Tots pick butt-kicking TV tough guys over boring Barney, says study!

TORONTO, Canada — Give a kid a choice between watching a cutesy children's show or a supernatural adult show and the little tyke will pick the butt-kicking, punch-and-stomp program every time!

That's the finding of experts at Ryerson Polytechnic University who studied 1,500 children and their viewing preferences.

"If there was no violence, television would be boring and dumb," said one 13-year-old girl. And researchers say her attitude is typical.

But it's not only teens and preteens who love watching physical conflict. Even tots, left to their own devices, will pick bullets over Barney.

WHAT is your secret message from the Orient this week? It's easy and fun to decipher. Here's the key to decoding your fortune:

If the number of letters in your first name is 5 or less, subtract that number from 7. If there are more than 5 letters in your first name, subtract the total from 13.

Now take the result and find your key letter in the word ORIENT above. Starting at the upper left corner of the box below, check each one of your key letters as it appears from left to right. The letters below each of your key letters spell out a coded message for you.

Can you find a pal I last saw in 1956?

Dear Serena: Many years ago I lost touch with a dear friend. I want to find her but I lost her address and phone number and can't get in touch no matter how hard I try.

A private investigator said he could find her but his fee is too high for me to pay. Please help, Serena. — Waiting in South Dakota

Dear Waiting: I didn't even have to use my psychic powers to help you because I received a letter from your friend the same day I got this one from you. She wrote to get in touch with you since I've forwarded your mailing address to her and here is you. I foresee a very happy reunion in April.

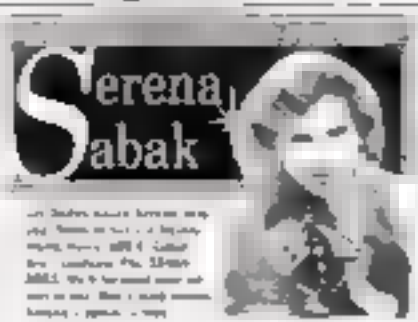
Dear Serena: Please help me before I go insane! A few minutes ago my telephone rang and when I answered it my dead husband's voice said: "Stop worrying about me, darling, I'm very happy here in Heaven. Please believe me and get on with your life. There is much you have left to accomplish." I know you won't lie to me, Serena. Was it my husband, my imagination or someone playing a joke? — Hoping in Smithfield

Dear Hoping: That was definitely your husband on the phone and I urge you to take his advice. By the way, what happened to you since I last straightened up your trailer's satellite dish?



Dear Serena: I'm very upset about two large lumps on my chin. Will you please say what your crystal ball tells you about the lumps? Are they going to get bigger? — Worried in Illinois

Dear Worried: The growths on your chin are benign but must be removed right away. See your doctor immediately. You'll be fine if you act now!

Dear Serena: Is the woman in the apartment across from me looking into my bedroom at night? Her window lines up with my bedroom window and sometimes I wake up with the strong feeling that she's watching me. And my girlfriend says she won't ever spend the night with me because she's afraid that woman's looking at us, too. Is she? — Bothered in McComb

Dear Bothered: She's not looking at you, but she's getting ready to complain to the landlord that you are making us all hear "Talk the Attention" with her before you end up in big trouble!

Dear Serena: My sister won big bucks on the Super Bowl. Not only did she bet on Denver to win but she got the score exactly right and even guessed who would score last. And she doesn't even like football! Please tell me how she did this — I think she might be a psychic like you are. Is she? — Wondering in Prairie

Dear Wondering: Actually she is — but she doesn't know how to use her remarkable powers to their full extent. I've sent me of my top assistants to meet with her to discuss her psychic gifts. She has a bright future ahead of her.

There's a shocking theory that's out of this world . . .

Did Castro replace Pope with a Communist double?

BEFORE the Pope's visit to Cuba: John Paul II clearly has a mole on his right cheek.

AFTER Pope returned to Vatican: Where's the mole? This man is clearly NOT John Paul.

Vatican insiders say Pope John Paul II is 'not the same man' who went to Cuba!

VATICAN CITY — Was the Pope replaced with a Communist double while on his historic trip to Cuba?

Incredibly, conspiracy buffs are saying that wily dictator Fidel Castro kidnapped the Pontiff and substituted a look-alike ordered to preach the "virtues" of Communism all around the world.

And, while U.S. Embassy officials here call the conspiracy theory "ridiculous," some top clergymen close to the leader of the Catholic Church say that the man who returned to the Vatican is NOT the same John Paul II who visited Cuba in late January.

They point to photographs taken before and after the trip, noting that a mole, once clearly visible on the Pope's right cheek, is now conspicuously absent. They insist that the man who claims to be the Pope uses the warmth, humor and boundless energy of the real John Paul — what's more, he is unable to speak the Pope's native Polish without a thick Spanish accent.

Several cardinals I have interviewed are very concerned. They say a dramatic change has come over the Holiness since the Cuba visit," said investigative reporter Lorenzo Di Trapfeuni, who covers the Vatican for the Italian magazine Stasera.

The Pope flew to the politically strategic island January 21 and met with Castro, the Communist dictator. On Sunday, the 74-year-old Pontiff celebrated Mass in Havana's Revolution Square before a crowd of more than 1 million people.

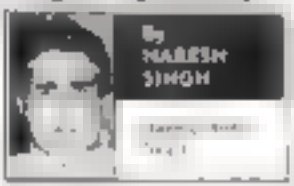
Scientists baffled by village EVERYONE HAS THE SAME

All 237 residents look exactly alike

MADRAS, India — Scientists are completely baffled by the people of Khala Goona, a remote village where all 237 citizens have the same face!

The tiny town, located about 30 miles south of Bangalore, has written a brand-new page in the book of human genetics.

"The face of every man, woman and child here is exactly like everyone else's, right down to the tiniest detail," says Dr Ernst Buchuls, noted German biologist and genetics expert



By HARESH SINGH

Dr. Buchuls heads a team of experts who have been studying the so-called "Village of Clones" for more than a year.

"From the creases just under the cheeks, to the tapering brim of the slight bulges above the eyebrows, it's impossible to discern one person's features from another's," he said.

Dr Buchuls says he and his research team have no idea what has caused the amazing phenomenon.

"Our chemists have run detailed tests of the area and found extremely high levels of platinum and bismuth in the soil and water. And although some scientists believe large concentrations of these minerals can affect the cells of growing human embryos and alter the development of the fetus, I'm be very hesitant to say these circumstances have been caused by minerals."

The people of Khala Goona have unique methods of recognizing and relating to one another.

"We learn to know each other by the way we walk, move and gesture," says 43 year-old Indira Kapoor who has lived in Khala Goona all her life.

"I know the walk and movements of everyone in town so well that I can recognize them instantly, even from great distances away -- long before I get close enough to see their faces.

"Also, each of us has a unique way of dressing, wearing the same styles and colors every day so we can be identified.

"And of course we pay close attention to each other's voices.

"We work hard to develop voice inflections that set us apart from one another."

The people of the village are devoutly spiritual.

Every villager attends the Ashram -- the Hindu equivalent of the Christian church -- regularly.

"We believe it is our Karma that we all have the same face," says Mrs Kapoor.

"God is teaching us that we must learn to treat all his people the same -- with dignity and respect -- because each person we deal is exactly like us. A human being who deserves kindness and love."

Experts tell why American women are so bitchy

Borderline anemia stalks millions of American women, robbing them of their energy, making them feel irritable and reducing their ability to concentrate, say experts.

"It's a significant problem," says epidemiologist Dr. Ray Yip.

"Other than obesity, this is probably the single most common nutritional disorder in the country among women."

Of the 78 million American females between 12 and 50, about 5 percent, or 3.5 million, suffer from full-blown iron-deficiency anemia.

Anemia results when hemoglobin -- the component that gives red blood cells their color -- is unable to carry enough oxygen to the cells' limited ability to deliver oxygen triggers various symptoms including unexplained or persistent fatigue, unusual or extreme irritability, reduced concentration and work performance and increased sensitivity to cold.

The most common cause of borderline anemia is an iron-poor diet, according to dietitian Magdalene Nelson.

She offers these tips to help you reduce your risk of borderline anemia:

• Cook with cast-iron pots and pans. Small amounts of iron will leach into foods cooked in them.

• Eat more iron-rich foods. Good sources include lean beef, turkey, lamb, veal, liver, beans, peas, lentils, dark green vegetables, prunes, apricots and raisins. To boost your body's store of iron, combine meats with iron-rich vegetables in the same meal.

• Avoid coffee and tea with meals. They hinder the ability to absorb iron in your food. Instead, drink these beverages between meals.

• Add vitamin C to your meals -- it helps the body absorb iron.

For example, you could have a

How to get along with co-workers — even if you hate their guts!

You can get along better with hated co-workers if you learn to recognize the six basic personality types, says a noted psychologist!

Based on years of clinical observation and research, Dr. Todd Kahler — an expert in employee communications — divides people into the following categories and reveals how you can get along with each.

By LOU MARTIN
Weekly World News

● REACTORS are antagonistic and love to react to the feelings of other people. They function best in a group and think of co-workers as their family away from home.

If you work with a Reactor, you should be as friendly and warm as possible and let him know he is important to you as a person.

The Reactor responds well when you tell him things like "I'm glad you're here."

Many nurses and teachers are Reactors.

● WORKAHOLICS are logical, orderly and precise.

The wrong way to communicate with a workaholic is to approach him as a personal friend. He'll want to hear just the facts, so skip the small talk and jokes and get right to the point.

● REBELS are energetic organizers and spontaneous and they dislike rigid schedules.

They need plenty of stimulation and contact with people. You should let the rebel brainstorm and balance new ideas off you. He has a need to be creative and to have a good time. Don't try to keep him on a rigid timetable. Artists, writers and musicians are often rebels.

● DREAMERS thrive on imagination, reflection and solitude. They seldom initiate conversations and start making decisions when there is less chaotic activity around them.

If you want to work successfully with a dreamer, you should not play loud music or let the telephone interrupt him. Dreamers are usually daydreamers.

● PERSISTERS are driven people, conservatives and dedicated. They have strong beliefs about how a job should be done. Many of them are in the field of law and law enforcement.

If you disagree with them, they tend to assume you're wrong. So rather than confronting their mistakes, it's best to try to help them discover where they've erred by engaging them in a discussion.

● PROMOTERS are the most action oriented people. Resourceful, adaptable and charming, the promoter will look for sports figures and ways around the rules. To get along best with the promoter you should avoid and persuaders and persisters discussing theory and details, since he likes action.

Dr. Kahler concludes that the least desirable combination is putting a reactor to work with a dreamer.

Others that would be difficult together are rebels and workaholics, rebels and persisters and promoters and persisters.

Titanic survivor saved her pet beagle — by disguising him as a baby!

By CLETE FULLERTON

LONDON — A Titanic survivor sneaked her pet beagle onto a lifeboat — by disguising him as a baby!

That's the word from historians who discovered a diary written by Lillian Allredson, daughter of a wealthy socialite.

She rescued her pooch, Abner, from the kennel compartment of the doomed ship where many panicked animals were running loose.

The Airedale hunkered the dog up in a blanket and even covered his head in a bonnet fooling passengers and crewmen as she and her "baby" were loaded onto a lifeboat.

"I put on clothing Abner is to my dress, hoping no one would notice his presence until we got safely with me because our boat was not crowded," Lillian wrote.

"He was not a dog, but he was the whole world to me. I realize many women in the boat had lost loved ones and were sad. I feared their ire if they ever found out I was saving Abner."

Crewmen on the Titanic were under strict orders to allow only women and children into the lifeboats after the vessel hit an iceberg and went on April 15, 1912.

Animals taken aboard the luxury liner had been placed in a separate area for pets.

Many frightened dogs were seen running throughout the ship after escaping the cells during the chaos.

"I raced to the compartment hoping to find Abner in the meadows," wrote Lillian, who was traveling to New York to visit relatives.

"Tears filled my eyes when I saw him sitting obediently in an opened cage. Someone opened the cages to let the animals out."

Lillian, 25 at the time, used linen from her room to make a bonnet for the dog.

She wrapped him in a blanket and tried to keep his snout covered.

"They wouldn't let me take my dog, but they had to accept my baby," she wrote.

Carpathia arrived to pick up the Titanic survivors.

"Being taken onto the rescue ship, no one noticed Abner, except for one crewman on the Carpathia who gave him a strange look, perhaps thinking he had just seen an ordinary baby.

"But by this time there was more concern for those whose safe souls we had left behind. I often wondered if I had been right in thinking only of one small life — my baby Abner — during that tragic time.

"But he was a real child to me and brought me much joy in my life. I do not believe any daughter or mother in the world could blame me for that."

Lillian died in 1984. Her diary remained in her family's London home until it was recently found.

SCIENTISTS SAY: Worry occurs on right side of brain!

BALTIMORE, Md. — University scientists have discovered that worrying takes place on the right side of the brain!

In the study conducted at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, volunteers were recorded as they described their troubles, such as recent family crises and financial woes. Then they listened to the worry-inducing tapes as researchers monitored brain scans.

"It was clear that several areas on the right hemisphere were activated by the worry tapes," said study author Dr. Gregory Hazlett.

Weekly World News New Product Report

An astonishing new food supplement eases the agony of arthritis in up to 85 percent of patients who try it, say top arthritis specialists.

By LESTER KINSE
Weekly World News

The product, called SeaCare™, is derived from a starfish-like marine animal, the sea cucumber, and is now available without a prescription.

The use of sea cucumber has a long history, dating back some 2,000 years. The Chinese have eaten sea cucumbers for its therapeutic value. Today, sea cucumber is eaten raw and served in many Chinese restaurants as a delicacy.

There are over 300 species of sea cucumber. However, the only one that has been researched and shown to be effective in treating the pain and inflammation that often accompany two of the most devastating forms of arthritis, osteoarthritis and rheumatoid arthritis, is harvested from the Great Barrier Reef of Australia.

Research tests here in the United States and in Australia has shown sea cucumber capsules to not only be effective, but also safe and nontoxic. So much so that the product sold here in the United States under the name SeaCare™ is approved by the Therapeutic Goods Administration (TGA), the Australian equivalent of our Food and Drug Administration (FDA), for the treatment of noninflammatory spasm and joint pain.

Dr. Howard Benedikt, a New York City chiropractor and nutritionist, became interested in the benefits of sea cucumber over five years ago and routinely uses the product in his clinical practice.

"Many people who come to me are seeking relief from joint pain and inflammation," says Dr. Benedikt. "They have taken medications for long periods of time, often without success. SeaCare™ is not only effective in reducing their pain, but at the same time, it helps restore normal movement of stiff joints."

Dr. Benedikt reports using SeaCare™ with over 300 patients for a wide variety of problems ranging from joint pain and stiffness to tendonitis, bursitis and muscle spasms.

"There is no question that the use of sea cucumber is an effective tool in relieving back, acute and chronic pain," the expert said. "We are presently conducting clinical trials to prove its effectiveness."

Sam Grant, a native of Queensland, Australia, is the president of Marine Research, USA. This company holds exclusive rights and registration to harvest and distribute sea cucumber from the Great Barrier Reef of Australia. He began to market the product some 20 years ago when a relative found that eating sea cucumber relieved the symptoms of his arthritis.

Grant makes it clear that the sea cucumber found in SeaCare™ is not only safe for human consumption. It is the only form that has been clinically studied. Grant has spent many years and invested his own money developing the special process that makes SeaCare™ unique.

"We have taken the time and energy to ensure that our product is safe and meets the needs of the consumer," he says.

Grant pledges that his company will continue to study the benefits of sea cucumber as well as producing other natural products for human consumption.

"More and more people are becoming interested in natural remedies," Grant says, "and many of these remedies may be found in the oceans of the world."

Dr. Mort Schwartzberg, director of rheumatology at Jersey Shores Medical Center in Neptune, N.J., says SeaCare™ "is definitely worth a try.

"It has few if any side effects. It's nontoxic. It's available without a prescription. And tests show that it can have a beneficial effect in relieving the symptoms of rheumatoid arthritis and osteoarthritis.

"I would like to see more rigorous studies to isolate the active ingredient. Meanwhile, it's nice to have something so promising and safe for arthritis patients to try. I recommend it to my own patients."

In an eye-opening study, Dr. Schwartzberg found that seven of 11, or 64 percent, of patients with osteoarthritis reported a reduction of pain and greater freedom of movement after using SeaCare™.

Seven of 11 patients with rheumatoid arthritis — or 63 percent — reported reduced pain and greater freedom of movement.

These dramatic results were virtually mirrored in a study conducted by arthritis specialist Dr. Michael McPhillips, a member of Great Britain's prestigious Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons.

The expert is now in private practice in Brisbane, Australia — where SeaCare™ has been available for years.

Dr. McPhillips found that 18 of 21 patients with rheumatic disease reported better mobility and reduced pain after they started taking SeaCare™ along with the prescription medications they were already using.

"Many of the patients were satisfied that there was significant improvement in their arthritis symptoms," Dr. McPhillips said. "And while I would ant suggest that it replace conventional medications. It may be used in addition to these with good effect and seemingly with a low risk of adverse reactions.

"I conducted the study to prove that the product was bogus but I simply couldn't do it," he continued. "It does seem to have a beneficial effect in many patients and in my opinion it is something every arthritis sufferer might do well to try."

Arthritis victim Eleanor Kennedy suffered crippling arthritis in her fingers and knees until she saw an advertisement for the product and tried it.

"After a severe reaction, I was taken off prescription medications as I had nothing for my arthritis," said the Dallas, Neb., woman. "The pain in my knees and fingers was so bad that I could barely walk or hold anything in my hands. After taking SeaCare™, the pain almost vanished.

"I would recommend it to anyone who suffers from arthritis pain."

Joanne Norgood of West Palm Beach, Fla., had such a severe case of arthritis that she couldn't lift groceries or turn over in bed.

"SeaCare™ has changed my life," she said. "After taking it for eight months, I'm actually bowling with a 16-pound ball."

Daphne Harper of Brooklyn, N.Y., tried cortisone and five other prescription medications for her arthritis and even had surgery on one of her crippled knees. But she remained in agony until she started using SeaCare™.

"It seems hard to believe, but I am no longer suffering," said Miss Harper. "The stiffness in my knees is gone. I feel great."

Doctors told Mary Stahl of Toms River, N.J., that she would have to take pain pills and have cortisone injections for the rest of her life just to be able to walk. She tried SeaCare™ with near-miraculous results.

"I started feeling better in just four days," she said. "I haven't had a cortisone injection in over a month. But the most significant change in my life is the total cessation of pain medicines and reduction of arthritis medication from 700 milligrams to 75 milligrams. I plan to make SeaCare™ a daily part of my life."

Arthritis victim Harry Mitchell, 61, of Cranbrook, N.J., said: "I've been suffering for many years with pain and stiffness in my legs and knees and had to give up walking. After taking SeaCare™, I'm able to ride a bike and walk two to three miles every day without pain. I can't live without it."

Before trying any new treatment or remedy, you should always consult a doctor. With that in mind, you can order a 30-day supply of SeaCare™ by simply sending a check or money order for $19.95, plus $3.50 to cover shipping and handling, to: E.S. Enterprises, County Road 497, Hartford, Mich. 49057 or call 1-616-621-8761. Visa and MasterCard are accepted.

THIS PRODUCT does not take the place of arthritis medication prescribed by your doctor, and you should check with your physician before using SeaCare™ or any other medication for arthritis pain.

Health tips for preparing seafood!

With all the talk about tainted meat and fish lately, it's nice to know there are things you can do to make sure that at least your seafood is safe to eat.

Here are some tips that will help you protect your health:

● Buy your seafood from a clean, reputable place. Don't buy seafood from a market where employees are not wearing gloves when they handle the food.

● Buy your seafood last. Don't let it sit around in the store. Ask the clerk to put it in a plastic bag for you.

● Keep your seafood cold. If the seafood you're thinking of buying is displayed on ice, make sure the ice is fresh and not melting.

● Whole fish should have clear, bright eyes and their scales should be shiny.

● Refrigerate seafood immediately after you get it home

GRANNY, 90, FOOTBALL

By ALEX MORGAN

BATON ROUGE, La. — Strong-legged 90-year-old Marybelle Degren made headlines nationwide with her amazing ability to kick 40-yard field goals — and now she's signed a contract to play for an NFL team!

The gutsy granny confirmed that she recently had tryouts with three teams and has signed a pact to join one of them during exhibition games this season. She refused to say which team.

"They made me promise not to tell until this announcement," she said. "But I'll be with them when practice starts. That's because I

If the incredible lady makes the team it will mark the climax of an amazing story that started in 1985 when she broke her hip and was told by doctors she would spend the rest of her life in a wheelchair.

"After they told me that, I started walking and then jogging to work myself back into shape," she said. "Then I found out that kicking a football was a great exercise

Music can boost your brainpower, surprising new research shows.

A recent study by psychologist Frances Rauscher revealed that toddlers who had enrolled in eight months of music lessons excelled at intelligence tests involving higher brain functions, faring far better than similar children who were not given music lessons.

Mrs. Degren said she's not bothered by the fact that many people will consider it a publicity stunt if she ever appears in a game.

"The team says I'll add a lot of excitement to a pre-season game," she said. "And that's just fine with me.

"If I can just get out there in front of a stadium full of people and kick one, I'll be pleased as punch," she said. "All I want is one chance to show 'em what I can do."

7 terrific tips to be more productive!

By GARY MYERS / Weekly World News

You can be more productive by freeing yourself from the seven time wasters that make up the word "CULPRIT," says an expert.

Here are the time wasters each letter of the word represents — and tips on how you can overcome each one from psychologist William Knaus, author of the book Do It Now.

C — Clutter. If your bills, your clothes and your tools are so cluttered that finding one of these items is a chore, you're wasting time. File important papers. Organize your closets, cabinets and drawers. Throw away things you don't need. The extra time it takes to get organized will save time in the long run.

U — Unfinished work. When you don't finish something, you waste the time you've spent on it — and waste time thinking about it. Before you start a new task, decide whether it's worth your time — or whether you can trust someone else to do it. Don't start new projects until you've completed the old ones.

L — Lack of trust. Doing everything yourself — from cleaning carpets or putting up wallpaper to writing business reports — can be a waste of time.

Before you start a new task, decide whether it's worth your time — or whether you can trust someone else to do it. Don't start new projects until you've completed the old ones.

P — Procrastination. Putting off unpleasant tasks is a waste of time. Instead, do them right away. Then you'll have more time to enjoy yourself.

R — Rehearsing. When you talk over every one of your plans, ambitions and goals with your family and friends, you're wasting time. Instead, discuss your ideas only with people who can give you constructive advice.

I — Indecision. Don't waste time worrying about whether you're making the right decision. Instead, make a decision and stick with it.

T — Tenacity. Sticking with a project that's bound to fail is a waste of time. Remember, sometimes you try to do things perfectly. To overcome that, set deadlines. Allow yourself a certain amount of time to plan and complete a project.

R — Recounting. When you talk over every one of your plans, ambitions and goals with your family and friends, you're wasting time. Instead, discuss your ideas only with people who can give you constructive advice.

MAN, 74, SINKS 2,750 BASKETS IN A ROW!

SEAL BEACH, Calif. — The world's free-throw champ is not a millionaire pro in the NBA, but an amazing 74-year-old geezer named Tom Amberry who made 2,750 straight baskets.

"If you're going to do something, why not be the best," said Amberry, a retired podiatrist who took up free-throw shooting as a hobby four years ago.

The feisty oldster shocked the sports world and made the Guinness Book of Records on Nov. 13, 1993, with a grueling 12-hour performance that blew away the old record by more than 700 shots.

It wasn't a missed shot that ended Amberry's streak at 2,750. He had to leave the gym because league games were scheduled. "I could have made a bunch more," he remarked.

"I was in the zone' as the kids say."

Twenty people witnessed Amberry's incredible feat and signed affidavits later as required by the Guinness folks.

"I felt sorry for them. It must have been very boring watching me shoot. I'm surprised none of them dozed off," said Amberry, who is fit as a fiddle and stands 6-foot-3.

FREE-THROW KING: Tom Amberry

The spry old timer has appeared on several network TV shows and has been interviewed by national sports magazines since achieving his astounding record.

The NCAA even invited him to perform at its Final Four basketball extravaganza.

And he has taught the art of free-throw shooting at a summer basketball camp.

"Players today don't practice free throws enough," he said. "They're more into dunking the ball and shooting three-pointers.

"It takes concentration to be a good free-throw shooter. You have to be focused on what you're doing. Free throws win ball games. A free throw is a gift from the referee. A player should take full advantage of it."

Amberry was an 80 percent two-handed free-throw shooter years ago when he played for the University of North Dakota.

But now he shoots one-handed and hits about 90 percent.

"I feel like I can take virtually anybody and make them a good shooter," he said.

All the attention has taken Amberry his wife, Helen, and their four sons by surprise. "It's something I never anticipated. It's been great," he said modestly.

NEW STUDY:

Men credit brains for their success — but women credit good luck for theirs!

Men and women react to success and failure in strikingly different ways, says a surprising new study.

"Men are far more likely to claim that their successes are a result of their abilities and that their failures are because the job was too difficult," says sociologist Judith Howard.

"Women, however, are more likely to claim that their successes are the results of good luck and their failures are due to a lack of ability.

"Many studies have been done on this. A man, when he succeeds, will take the credit for it."

For example, she said, a salesman who makes a big sale will think to himself: "Well, I'm certainly a good salesman."

But when he fails to make a sale, the same salesman may blame the customer, the competition, the product he's selling or even the economy before he blames himself for his failure.

"On the other hand, if it's a woman who sells thousands of dollars' worth of products on the spot, she's likely to think: 'Well, that was a lucky break,'" said Dr. Howard.

"And if she doesn't make the sale, she's more likely to think: 'I'm just not very good at sales.'"

Strangely, men and women agree with each other's reasons for their successes and failures, Dr. Howard said.

"If a man is successful, a woman will tend to agree with him that it is because he's talented," she said.

"If he fails, the woman will agree with him that the job was just too difficult.

"And if a woman fails at something, men are likely to agree that it's because she just wasn't very good at whatever she was trying to do.

"If she succeeds, men will be likely to agree with her that she succeeded only because she was lucky."
